HE IS A LAUNDRY BROKER.

Odd Business of a Young Man Who Is Preparing Himself For College.

One young man lu New York in pre paring himself to enter college seen forced into an odd business. Fluding himself face to face with the pecessity of carning a living while he went on with his studies he obtained employment for two hours a day as a walter. This earned bim his meals, but he had to cast about for clothes and lodging.

It occurred to him to ask some of his acquaintances to give him the commission of doing their washing. Of course he had petter time nor skill to do the actual work of washing and ironing himself, but he found others to do this and merely undertook as middleman to collect and deliver the clothing, taking a moderate commission for his part of the work.

He pleased his customers so well that they recommended him to their friends, and his business grew so that he had to aire a room and maintain there a clerk to attend to the detail of orders and the like. He continues to do the actual delivering himself, using for the purpose

Duncan Ross, the Scotch athlete, brought to New York with him some years ago a valuable built terrier, fa-mous for the blue ribbons he had won in India. Mr. Ross lived across the Harlem river, but his business took him daily to the lower part of New York. Invariably he was accompanied to his office by the bull terrier. As it was known that he always came down town on the elevated railroad, his friends wondered knowing the embargo placed upon dogs, how he procured transit for the bull terrier.

Their repeated questioning finally persunded him to reveal the secret, and he invited them all to the office one evening just as he was starting for home. He took out of his desk a stout piece of wrapping paper and, opening it out flat, spread it on the floor, he whistled to the dog, and the bull terrier walked to the center of the paper and curled up in a limp lump. Mr. Ross then produced a piece of stout cord and made a very neat parcel of his pet and tucked it under his arm.

"I have exerted this parcel up and down town for two years," he "and no one has ever had the faintest suspicion of its animated contents. Clive is so well trained that he never makes a sound or moves a muscle. I leave a little opening at one end of the package, so that he has plenty of air."
